Technip Energies is a global energy technology and services company and holds over 35% global liquified natural gas (LNG) market share, confirmed by the landmark North Field awards in Qatar. The company anticipates its highest-ever annual order intake in 2026 across the Middle East and beyond, with several mega-projects expected to reach final investment decision. With a net cash position of ~€1bn, an S&P BBB credit rating, and ~€300m in planned shareholder returns in 2026, the financial profile is robust.

- Technip Energies (Technip) operates through two segments: Project Delivery, which executes large-scale Engineering, Procurement & Construction (EPC) contracts, primarily LNG, petrochemicals, and decarbonization infrastructure; and Technology, Products & Services (TPS), which licenses process technologies and supplies proprietary equipment and catalysts. In FY2025, Project Delivery contributed €5.4bn in revenue and TPS €1.8bn. Technip Energies delivered record revenue of €7.2bn in FY2025, with recurring EBITDA of €638m and free cash flow conversion exceeding 91%. The company is on track to surpass €800m in EBITDA by 2028, supported by a backlog projected to reach €16–24bn by H1 2026.

LNG leadership and market outlook

- Technip holds over 35% global LNG market share and has a strong track record in execution of significant LNG EPC projects in key regions. The company is currently working on two material projects in Qatar - North Field East (NFE) and North Field South (NFS) and was recently awarded with North Field West (NFW) EPC project. The outlook for Final Investment Decisions (FID) for LNG projects globally remains strong which should support order intake in coming years. Global LNG liquefaction capacity is expected to reach 900m tonnes p.a. by the mid-2030s, providing a long structural tailwind. The TPS segment was strengthened by the acquisition of Ecovyst's Advanced Materials & Catalysts business, broadening the catalyst and technology licensing platform.

Qatar disruption and rebuild opportunity

- In March 2026 QatarEnergy reported that missile attacks at Ras Laffan Industrial City damaged LNG Trains 4 and 6, with a combined capacity of 12.8 mtpa, and said repairs will take 3 to 5 years. Because Technip is involved in all eight NFE, NFS, and NFW trains, and has done brownfield work on earlier Qatar trains, including the damaged Train 6, the company is likely to receive repair contracts. As of YE25, about 50% of Technip's backlog is in the Middle East; the backlog remains intact with no contractual cancellations, though temporary stoppages have caused some operational disruption.

Balance sheet strength and shareholder returns

- With a net cash position of ~€1bn, an S&P BBB credit rating, and ~€300m in planned shareholder returns in 2026, the financial profile is robust. The company carries gross cash of €3.8bn against gross debt of €1bn. Capital allocation policy commits a minimum of 25–35% of recurring free cash flow to dividends. For 2026, Technip Energies proposed an 18% dividend increase and €150 m share buyback.

Valuations and Risks:

- Key risks include delays in FIDs for major LNG projects, USD/EUR currency movements impacting TPS revenues, policy instability around decarbonization investments, and lumpy working capital movements driven by project timing.
- The target price of €48/share is based on 12 months forward EV/EBITDA of 8x (in line with 5yr peer group).

KEY PRODUCT RISKS

- Market risk: The value of stocks may rise or fall depending on various factors. Equities are susceptible to fluctuations in economic conditions and market sentiment that may have no direct impact with the health of the company.
- Dividend risk: Companies can cut or reduce dividend payments at any time. Companies are not legally required to pay dividends or increase the payments they make.
- Dilution risk: Company management may opt to raise capital through various methods which may dilute existing shareholders.
- Bankruptcy risk: If a company goes bankrupt and liquidates, common shareholders are last in line to receive money after creditors, bondholders and preferred shareholders.
- Concentration risk: The risk of loss rise when a portfolio is heavily concentrated to a particular name, sector, region, industry or product.
- Political risk: Equities in both developed markets, emerging markets and frontier markets may be affected by country-specific political events, in addition to regional and global political issues.
- Corporate governance risk: Companies in both Developed Markets and Emerging Markets have differing levels of corporate governance, which can affect equity performance both positively or negatively. This can includes corporate remuneration policies, connected transaction rules and accepted definition of insider trading definition and prosecution of all forms of market manipulation.
- Liquidity risk: Some equities may not have active secondary markets and it would be difficult or impossible for investors to sell the stock without significantly affecting its price. In the worse scenario, an investor may be unable to sell the shares in the secondary market.
- Currency risk: For equities denominated in a foreign currency, there may be an exchange loss when converting the redemption amount back to the local or base currency, particularly in the event the bond currency depreciates against the settlement currency.
- Inflation and interest rates: Inflation and interest rates play an important part in the price variation of equities and equity markets. In addition, inflation can nibble away at your savings.
- Sustainability risks: Sustainability risks are defined as “an environmental, social or governance event or condition that, if it occurs, could cause a negative material impact on the value of the investment”.

Please refer to your relationship manager or advisor for further information regarding the risks.

DEFINITION OF THE PRODUCT RISK CLASSIFICATION (PRC)

- PRC 1 (Lower risk): Encompasses instruments characterized by low fluctuations in value, strong creditworthiness, and good liquidity in normal market conditions. These instruments are typically suitable for investors seeking to preserve capital and to generate modest income over the short term. Examples include most money market investments and specific government bonds.
- PRC 2 (Moderate risk): Instruments with good creditworthiness and moderate risks overall in normal market conditions, with relatively moderate risk on capital while achieving slightly higher returns than money market investments over the short to medium term. Examples include bond funds, bonds, or portfolio funds with large proportions of high-quality bonds.
- PRC 3 (Medium risk): Instruments with fluctuations from single digit to low double-digit percentages, with some higher degree of risk, including credit and market risks (among which , but not limited to increased credit spreads, interest rate fluctuations, and volatility risks) than PRC 2 products while having usually a relatively good liquidity in normal market conditions. These are typically suitable for investors looking to achieve some income and capital growth in the medium term. Examples include bonds with rating just above or below investment grade, high-quality blue-chip equities, broadly diversified equity funds, or portfolio funds.
- PRC 4 (Significant risk): Instruments with increased potential fluctuations in the double-digit percentage range, with some significant risk on capital resulting for example from higher level of credit and market risks and having lower liquidity aimed at achieving capital growth in the long term. Examples include cyclical equities, emerging markets equities, bonds with high coupon rates (junk bonds), or alternative investments such as certain commodities.
- PRC 5 (High risk): Instruments with high potential fluctuations in the double-digit percentage range and high overall risks due to poor creditworthiness or liquidity, intended to maximize asset growth. Examples include options, equities of smaller companies, equities in volatile markets, selected non-securitized derivative products, and all types of accumulators and decumulators.
- PRC NR (Not Rated): Waiting for a risk rating note.

Disclaimer

This document is a marketing communication containing GENERAL INFORMATION on the financial services and/or financial instruments, and reflecting the sole opinion of Union Bancaire Privée, UBP SA and/or any entity of the UBP Group (hereinafter "UBP") as of the date of issue. It may contain generic recommendations but it is not and should not be deemed an offer nor a solicitation to enter into any transaction with UBP, buy, subscribe to, or sell any currency, product, or financial instrument, make any investment, or participate in any particular trading strategy in any jurisdiction where such an offer or solicitation would not be authorised, or to any person to whom it would be unlawful to make such an offer or solicitation. This document is meant only to provide a broad overview for discussion purposes, in order to determine clients' interest. It does not replace a prospectus, KID, KIID or any other legal document relating to any specific financial instrument, which may be obtained upon request free of charge from UBP or from the registered office of the issuer of the instrument concerned, where applicable. The opinions herein do not take into account individual clients' circumstances, objectives, or needs.

In this document UBP makes no representation as to the suitability or appropriateness, for any particular client, of the financial instruments or services described, nor as to their future performances. Clients who wish to obtain more information about any specific financial instruments can request it from UBP and/or their Relationship Manager. Where an investment is considered, the information on the risks linked to each financial instrument shall be provided in good time by separate means before the investment decision is taken. In any case, each client must make their own independent decisions regarding any securities or financial instruments mentioned herein and regarding the merits or suitability of any investment. Before entering into any transaction, clients are invited to carefully read the risk warnings and the regulations set out in the prospectus or other legal documents and are urged to seek independent, professional advice from their financial, legal, accounting and/or tax advisors with regard to their investment objectives, financial situation and specific needs.

UBP performs analysis on the financial instruments based on market offer and may maintain and/or seek to develop business affiliations with third parties for that purpose; furthermore UBP may create its own financial instruments. This generic information is therefore not independent from the proprietary interests of UBP or connected parties, which may conflict with the client's interests. UBP has policies governing cases of conflicts of interest and takes appropriate organisational measures to prevent potential conflicts of interest.

The information contained in this document is not the result of financial analysis within the meaning of the Swiss Banking Association's "Directives on the Independence of Financial Research" or of independent investment research as per the EU's MiFID or other regulations. EU regulation does not govern relationships entered into with UBP entities located outside the EU.

The investments mentioned herein may be subject to risks that are difficult to quantify and to integrate into the valuation of investments. Generally speaking, products with a high degree of risk, such as derivatives, structured products or alternative/nontraditional investments (such as hedge funds, private equity, real estate funds, etc.) are suitable only for clients who are capable of understanding and assuming the risks involved. The value of any capital investment may be at risk and some or all of the original capital may be lost. The investments are exposed to currency fluctuations and may increase or decrease in value. Fluctuations in exchange rates may cause increases or decreases in the client's returns and/or in the value of the portfolio. The client may be exposed to currency risks if a financial instrument or the underlying investment of a financial instrument is denominated in a currency different from the reference currency of the client's portfolio or from the currency of their country of residence. For more information on risks, the brochure called "Characteristics and risks of certain financial operations" should be consulted.

When providing investment advice or portfolio management services, UBP considers and assesses all relevant financial risks, including sustainability risks. Sustainability risks are defined by the EU's Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (2019/2088) as "an environmental, social or governance event or condition that, if it occurs, could cause a negative material impact on the value of the investment". For further information on our sustainability risk management approach please visit www.ubp.com.
